

GastroBot - Disclaimer

Informational Purposes Only

The suggestions and recommendations provided by GastroBot are generated by artificial intelligence and are intended for informational and educational purposes only. They should not be viewed as a substitute for professional medical advice, diagnosis, or treatment. The AI-driven suggestions do not account for individual medical evaluations and should not be relied upon for making medical or health-related decisions.

Not Medical Advice

The content provided by GastroBot does not constitute medical, nutritional, or health advice. Our recommendations are of a general nature and may not consider specific health conditions, dietary restrictions, or personal circumstances. Before making any significant dietary changes or if you have any health concerns, we strongly recommend consulting a qualified healthcare professional.

Personal Responsibility

Users are responsible for ensuring that any recommendations provided by GastroBot are suitable for their individual health needs. This includes verifying that no recommendations conflict with food allergies, intolerances, or dietary restrictions. Adjusting your diet based solely on AI-generated suggestions, without consulting a healthcare provider, is not advised. Always seek professional advice before making any changes to your diet or health routine.

Limitation of Liability

GastroBot disclaims any liability for adverse health effects or damages arising from the use of its suggestions. This includes, but is not limited to, allergic reactions, food intolerances, or other health complications. The information provided is intended for reference purposes only, and users assume full responsibility for any actions taken based on the app's suggestions.

Understanding and Acceptance

By using GastroBot, you acknowledge that you have read and understood this disclaimer and agree to use the app and its recommendations at your own risk. You accept full responsibility for any risks associated with the use of our AI-generated suggestions and affirm that you will seek professional medical advice when necessary.
